Germany's trade deficit swelled to EUR 61.2 billion in the first nine months of 2017 from EUR 59.9 billion a year earlier, German statistical office Destatis said. The trade gap was mainly driven by a EUR 4 billion surplus with the Republic of Ireland, while a EUR 8.5 billion surplus with the United Kingdom offset a sizeable deficit with the United States, while a slight decline in exports to France and a drop in imports from France more than offset the increase of non-EU countries. Germany's current account surplus was down to EUR 25.8 billion in the first nine months of 2017, down from EUR 28.7 billion a year earlier, mainly due to a large drop in exports to the United States while imports from the European Union and Rest of the World remained fairly flat.Prestashop CMS is used on over 5,000 websites.
