What's new:

Codename: Terranova is a stealth game developed and published by Italian video games developer Half-Life franchise developer Valve. Originally intended to be a direct sequel to Half-Life 2, it was canceled in 2012 due to problems with pacing and engine issues. The game saw a limited release in retail stores on October 24, 2015, on Steam on November 10, and for public download on December 17. On December 5, 2015 the developers revealed that a free modding tool will be available in 2015 and that a further sequel "Codename: Escape" is in development. Gameplay Codename: Terranova is a stealth game in which the player takes the role of a covert operative with the codename Terranova. The player's objective is to locate the creator of a virus that has spread across the Earth, to discover where the virus came from, and to discover why it was created. The player will be capable of hiding during normal gameplay, taking advantage of realistic face and clothing options and using the environment around them in ways to aid their progress, engaging in nonviolent conversations with NPCs and gathering information using them and alternative means. The player can observe security cameras around the world, listening to conversations in crowded places, and can physically harm enemies in certain missions. Codename: Terranova is set in a near future where citizens have become used to communicating using their cell phones, yet this feature may not always work. The city of New London is breaking down with military forces searching for something they call 'The Carrier'. The virus is directly connected to the search for the Carrier with the virus infecting the carriers that acquired the virus from the Carrier. The player is given the opportunity to observe a variety of cutscenes in which the Carrier is introduced to the world. The Carrier itself is a specialized vehicle using magic and technology to heighten its functionality and speed. It is capable of carrying other vehicles, being capable of stopping machine guns and other weaponry. In addition, the Carrier can self-regenerate after being destroyed (by solving one of the puzzles available during the game) to continue its search. Soldiers aboard the Carrier are typically unconcerned about damage the Carrier sustains and will run head on into an ambush as soon as the Carrier has a fatal wound. The Carrier seeks out a so-called "Queen's Apparition" - a black orb, similar to the Carrier itself - but everything breaks down and they leave for an unidentified area. This is where the Carrier and the virus are revealed to their creators.
