I would really appreciate it. Thank you so much! A: I'm not exactly sure what format your data is in (encoded in some proprietary way I don't know about) but you could just try this, and if it works, great, if it doesn't, file a bug: `Import["phdiagramr12pdfdownload.pdf"]` I just tried this on your example and it worked. So I'd assume this is what you're after. A proposal aimed at preventing "fingerprinting" by modern DNA analysis techniques has taken a step forward at the North Dakota State Fair. The fair board has approved a state law

(SB 1166) that says that information obtained from DNA samples collected at fairs can only be used by public health officials to confirm paternity in child support cases. New York banned forensic DNA testing on evidence collected in murder investigations in 2002, but as part of a new law that was passed last year, the state began allowing it, beginning in October 2003. This legislation requires that forensic DNA testing be used only in the cases in which it is already being performed voluntarily, and it forbids the use of any DNA information or forensic testing obtained in such an investigation for the purposes of criminal prosecution. In a broadside aimed at conservative activists, President Bush said yesterday that if liberals want to use DNA testing to find the father of a baby whose mother isn't married, they should spend that money on families in need. A new law signed by the Florida Senate late last week may set a court date for an abortion provider who performs the procedure in the same place where minors are allowed to have abortions. A bill introduced by a Broward County state senator sets up stiff penalties for anyone who performs an abortion on a minor - no exceptions for rape or incest - and does it while a minor is present, even if the minor consents. Wal-Mart Corp. wants the U.S. Food and Drug Administration to approve its nutrition-labeling and voluntary health-claims rules for foods that are sold in its stores, bringing to a close a prolonged, six-year battle that some health professionals and consumer groups say gives Big Food too much power over the information. Lawmakers on the House Agriculture Committee yesterday rejected a new proposal from Wal-Mart's lobbyists to exempt the giant retailer's proposed nutrition label and health-claim standards from federal oversight. The Food and Drug Administration has been working on a proposal

FAQs about the Connecticut General Assembly How is the General Assembly funded? The General Assembly is funded by a combination of appropriations from the federal government, state bond funds, and a few other state funds. It is the only state government in Connecticut that is completely funded by revenue. The bulk of the General Assembly's appropriations come from the federal government.

Appropriations are controlled by the governor through legislative line item vetoes. The governor also has the ability to make reductions to appropriations and to add new line items. The governor traditionally must first obtain appropriation approval from the House and Senate. Appropriations must have sufficient votes to pass. The governor can not unilaterally reduce the funding and must obtain the approval of the legislature. Rep. Steve Stafstrom

How are House and Senate representatives elected?

Connecticut is divided into 203 single-member Senate districts and 150 single-member House districts. The districts are based on population. Every 10 years after the census, the U.S. Census Bureau computes new population numbers and each office is re-districted. The state's House members are elected by popular vote and the state's Senate members are elected by state legislators. In 2012, there were 533 House members and
